The Listing Of Funds in Home Drive

OSIA NEWS has received a number of inquiries from Grand Lodges relative to the publication of funds collected in the National Home drive and remitted to the Sons of Italy Foundation.

Some Grand Lodge officials have questioned the totals now being published as not reflecting the true total that has been contributed by their respective Grand Lodges.

In answer to these inquiries, the following statement has been issued by National Home Chairman John A. Volpe and Executive Secretary A. Alfred Marcello:

"The funds reported each month in OSIA NEWS represents monies collected since August 1959 when the Order established the Sons of Italy Foundation. It was agreed at that time to have all contributions to the Home made payable to the Sons of Italy Foundation.

"Prior to the establishment of the Foundation, the Supreme

Cite Challenges Facing the U. S.

Two Columbus Day speakers in separate parts of the country sounded similar warnings in safeguarding America's position as the leader of democracy.

Second Assistant Supreme Venerable Amedeo H. Volpe of Schenectady, N. Y., speaking in Baltimore, Md., and Wisconsin's Gov. Gaylord Nelson, speaking in Racine, urged Americans to respect others' rights and called for a moral and spiritual reawakening.

Volpe, principal speaker at the Maryland Grand Lodge dinner, said a "deterioration of the American Spirit may cripple U.S. chances in winning the fight against Communism."

He said America faced an even greater challenge than in the past, with a world divided between the ideologies of the Western Christian civilization and the tyranny behind the Iron Curtain.

He said in part:

"Are we equal to the challenge? Perhaps we are morally and spiritually deteriorating. I am sorry to report that after traveling from one end of this country to the other recently I see religion pitted against religion, race against race. This is not the America we read about. This is not the America I want, or the America of my parents. Are we becoming hypocritical? Are we sitting back in apathy, telling ourselves again 'we never had it so good!'"

"I tell you, friends, there must come a spiritual and moral reawakening, and come soon, or we stand to lose all that really makes great, all the things we claim we

"I note that thus far your state has not collected any funds for the erection of the National Home, notwithstanding the fact that the campaign has been in progress for some time.

"You and I must agree that, if every Grand Lodge did likewise, and continue to do so, the 'Home' would never become a reality. What a tragedy it would be. Not only the prestige of our beloved Order would be affected, but the prestige of our own people would be affected as well.

"This must not happen. The 'Home' must be erected, and erected as soon as possible. It is impossible for me to conceive that the quota assigned to you cannot be realized in a short time."

Lodge was collecting an assessment of $1.00 per member in accordance with a resolve passed at the 1957 Supreme Lodge convention held at San Francisco. The assessment was to be levied for a one-year period. Funds collected from this assessment were deposited in a special account earmarked for the national home project alone.

"Many Grand Lodges, at the end of the one-year period, had not completed their collections of the $1.00 assessment and the time period was extended. A number of Grand Lodges have as yet to complete their payments on the assessment. There are those Grand Lodges that have completed their assessment payments and have in fact made an overpayment. These overpayments by Grand Lodges, amounting to a slightly more than $4,000, are on deposit in the Home account.

"The Supreme Lodge and National Memorial Home Committee will add these overpayments to current Grand Lodge totals only when the Foundation is approved by the United States Internal Revenue Department.

"Grand Lodge quotas in the current drive were established soon after the 1959 Supreme Convention and all contributions received since then have been credited against respective state quotas and are published each month in OSIA NEWS.

"Purchase of the Home site in Washington, D.C., and razing of the building has been paid for through funds raised by the assessment. The balance which remains in the Home account will be transferred to the Foundation account once the Foundation is approved by the Internal Revenue Department.

"In closing we want to emphasize that Grand Lodge figures now published monthly in OSIA NEWS are sums that have been raised by direct contributions since August 1959 and that the assessment payments by Grand Lodges are not to be construed as being applicable to current state quotas."

1960 Civic Award To Alessandrini

PHILADELPHIA—President Judge Eugene V. Alessandrini, Grand Venerable of the Pennsylvania Order, is the recipient of the 1960 annual Civic Award presented by the Graduate Club of Philadelphia.

ALESSANDRINI

More than 300 persons attended the organization's dinner-dance held at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel.

Dr. George Dragone, chancellor of the Graduate Club, presented the award to Judge Alessandrini for "extraordinary achievements as jurist, lawyer and scholar and in appreciation of many and beneficial deeds in the field of humanitarianism and patriotism."

Speakers were Judge Theodore Reimel, Judge Leo Weinrott and Dr. A. A. Nardone.

Dr. Pascal Lucchesi, executive vice president and medical director of Einstein Medical Center, and first recipient, was toastmaster.

College President's Views

Rebellious Spirit Key To Columbus' Greatness

POTTSVILLE, Pa.—Dr. Italo L. deFrancesco, president of Kutztown State College, was principal speaker at the Columbus Day dinner-dance sponsored by Pottsville Lodge No. 1523.

Dr. de Francesco urged his audience to evoke the spirit of adventure which belonged to Columbus, who did more than just discover America — "he helped to inaugurate the Renaissance."

"It was his rebellious spirit not to be satisfied with the status quo which made Columbus great," he said.

"It is this same rebellious spirit which pervades the Italian people and has helped the Italians to make great contributions to the world of science, education, art, and politics."

Citing daVinci, Volta, Galileo, Marconi and Fermi, he said that their intellectual curiosity and their spirit of adventure were responsible for their great achievements.

DeFrancesco pointed to Italy as the center of world education. He reminded his audience that the oldest university in the world is the University of Salerno, followed by the great universities of Bologna, Rome, and Naples. Declaring that Italian art, music, and literature are without peers, de Francesco read the list of great Italian names which has continued to the very present in an unending stream of art and culture—gifts for the entire world.

"It was these gifts which the Italians brought with them to America. On arrival at America's shores, these same people received the American gifts of justice and freedom and the great American ideals which enable every American to seek and achieve, unhampered, his own level of greatness. Using the power of love for country, the sons and daughters of Italy are urged to rededicate themselves to the ideals of America, not merely to pay annual homage to the memory of Columbus. Without the capacity of loving one's native land, one has no capacity for loving one's adopted country," de Francesco said.

He predicted that in espousing their devotion to democracy, "the Italians are destined to participate in the growth of America, the fulfillment of the American dream, and in the preservation of the American ideals of freedom, equality, and justice for all."

Following the address, de Francesco was presented with a desk name plate carved from anthracite coal and bearing his name and the seal of Kutztown State College. Venerable Anthony Piccioni of the Pottsville Lodge made the presentation of the gift.

Prof. Frederick M. Giletti, assistant director at Penn State Center, was toastmaster. Charles R. DiCello was chairman, and Gaspar Messina was co-chairman.

Supreme Chaplain's Corner

An Inventory

By RT. REV. MSGR. GUIDO L. PALLOTTA

This is that time of the year when owners of business concerns pause in their feverish pursuit of the dollar to take an inventory of their stock and to formulate new policies for the further success of their business in the new year.

The first thing they do is to find out which articles moved fast and brought them a profit, and which articles moved slowly. Then they will study the policies used during the past year to find out which stimulated sales and which failed to move their merchandise.

FR. PALLOTTA

Then they make their decision, resolutions for the coming year. They will resolve to keep up the policy that brought them gain, and continue ordering the articles that moved fast. They will discontinue the policy and the 'line' which failed. Their greatest resolution will be — not to make the mistakes of the past year.

Stock-taking is necessary for them to know where they stand; their resolutions are necessary in order to show a profit. If they did not do this they would soon be out of business and in bankruptcy.

They will do this for what? For material gain.

Each one of us is in business, the most important business of all, namely, the salvation of our immortal soul. We should follow the example of the merchants of the world and pause at this time to take stock of our spiritual assets and liabilities. We should resolve to avoid those persons, places, things, habits and vices which have impeded the progress of our 'business' during the past year. We should make appropriate resolutions for the coming year that will improve our 'business' and bring us great profits. For, after all, we are working for "an incorruptible crown of glory." If we do not, then we shall become spiritually bankrupt.

How's business with you? That is, your spiritual business?

Governor Nelson told a gathering at the Roma Lodge dinner:

"The sooner we learn to respect others' rights, the stronger our democracy will be.

"One of the failures of our education system is that youngsters pick up their prejudicial attitudes about the time they are going through school.

"If the United States wants to be a leader of democracy, we must be certain we aren't destroying our own democracy through prejudices. The contributions to our culture by a combination of all races and religions constitutes the strength of American democracy."

RECORDS IN REVIEW

By A. ALFRED MARCELLO

Mascagni's CAVALLERIA RUSTICANA has long been one of our favorite operas. From the very first time we saw and heard 'Rusticana' performed in Providence, R. I., we have placed it at the top of our list. That was back in our early 'teens, undoubtedly an impressionable age.

And the fact that "Rusticana" was on the same bill with Pagliacci possibly may have something to do with its popularity with this writer. But somehow, whenever we think of C a v a l l e r i a Rusticana we usually think of the most beautiful and best loved music in the world.

"Rusticana" SIMIONATO has been recorded many times and by some of the most talented operatic stars of our time. The latest recording comes from London Records. It's in stereo and featured are such top performers as Mario del Monaco, Giulietta Simionato and Cornell MacNeil. And the incomparable and ageless Maestro Tullio Serafin, who originally taught del Monaco the role of Turridu, directs the chorus and orchestra of L'Accademia di Santa Cecilia of Rome.

This is a masterful performance of Mascagni's operatic gem. We have never heard a better Santuzza than Simionato's. The mezzo-soprano's interpretation of Santuzza is a joy to behold. Del Monaco's Turridu is fiery and realistic. We doubt any modern tenor can match del Monaco's singing or dramatic performance as Turridu.

And we doubt that anyone can equal Cornell MacNeil's Alfio. MacNeil's powerful baritone voice lends itself to this choice role. All in all a thrilling experience in opera.

There are two discs in this album. On side four of the set is an ITALIAN SONG RECITAL by del Monaco with orchestra conducted by Ernesto Nicelli. These include six selection topped by Torna A Surriento.

A handsome slick-paper booklet goes with this set. It contains pictures and biographical material on the stars as well as the original libretto in Italian with an English translation.

Walter's Mahler

For the third time in his remarkable career as a conductor, Bruno Walter has recorded Mahler's LIEDER EINES FAHRENDEN GESELLEN (Songs of a Wayfarer). There are two discs to this Columbia Masterworks' release. The soloists are Mildred Miller and Ernest Haeflinger, tenor.

This Mahler work is rich and complex. It has a demanding score on both the orchestra and the soloists. Under Walter's brilliant conducting, the New York Philharmonic performs superbly. Miss Miller and Ernest Haeflinger give a good account of themselves. And the spacious clarity of the engineering leaves little to be desired.

Walter's interpretation is warm and mellow. He conducts with an eye to bringing out the natural beauty of the score. And this he does, expressively and with ease.

This recording occupies three sides of the two discs. On the fourth side, Miss Miller sings the "Lieder eines fahrenden Gesellen." The youthful qualities of her voice are quite at home here.

Patachou Album

The vivacious Patachou has a ten-strike in her new release for Audio Fidelity — PATACHOU SINGS. In this sparkling recording she sings not only songs of her native France, but also outstanding tunes from hit Broadway shows. And she does so in English and French.

P a t a c h o u gives a vibrant and charming interpretation to the selections she sings in French. These include four numbers from the musical, Irma La Douce. She is positively enchanting when she sings in English hit tunes from such musicals as Pal Joey, The Bells Are Ringing, My Fair Lady, The King and I, Walk a Little Faster and The Three Penny Opera.

Patachou is especially effective in the numbers, Hello, Young Lovers, I Could Have Danced All Night, and April in Paris.

She has excellent support in Jo Basile, the accordionist, and his orchestra. The sound is terrific. In both stereo and mono.

More Beethoven

The news this month is that two of London's top recording artists—Ernest Ansermet and Wilhelm Backhaus—have completed the cycle of recordings for stereo the Beethoven nine symphonies and the Beethoven five piano concerti.

With the release of THE THIRD SYMPHONY (the Eroica), Ansermet, the conductor supreme, now has committed to wax all of the Beethoven symphonies to two-channel recording. As in the other Ansermet recordings for London, The Eroica is distinguished by beautiful sound and performance by Ansermet and his first-rate Swiss Romande Orchestra.

We believe that Ansermet's performance in The Eroica establishes him as one of the foremost interpreters of Beethoven.

Backhaus' recording of the Beethoven PIANO CONCERTO NO. 2 is the final one in the cycle of Beethoven concerti. And it is marked by the same brilliant playing Backhaus displayed in the other four concerti. Coupled with PIANO CONCERTO NO. 2 is one of Beethoven's most popular works, MOONLIGHT SONATA. Backhaus gives the most satisfying performances. We have ever heard on hi-fi.

Certainly, we do not know of any pianist who can get so much out of Beethoven's piano con-

United Artists New Label, Ultra Audio

United Artists has unveiled a new label, Ultra Audio which should create excitement in the world of recorded music. The initial five releases feature such artists as Don Costa, Terry Snyder, Al Caiola, Nick Perito and Ferrante and Teicher.

We experimented with a sampler of the new series and we are pleased to report that the sound of this new label certainly lives up to its name, Ultra Audio. It is apparent that these are not releases which resort to gimmicks. Rather, if the sampler is any yardstick, Ultra Audio releases make news because of recording techniques and the unusual talent of the artists featured.

There is depth in sound definition; there is clean-cut channel separation and clarity in the sounds of the various instruments demonstrated on the sampler.

We are looking forward to more of these releases.

certos than this remarkable artist who at the age of 75 came out of retirement to re-record the five concerti for stereo.

The five concerti are being made available by London as a set. Or if you wish you can purchase them singly. An excellent buy either way.

Audio Fidelity

Two more in the "Doctored for Super Stereo" series have been released by Audio Fidelity Records. These are PERCUSSIVE BIG BAND JAZZ and BALDWIN ORGAN AND BONGOS. And these make for pleasant and relaxing listening. Marvelous stereo and a nice choice of musical selections.

The Bobby Christian Band essays a dozen popular tunes in the Big Band Jazz release. On this list are On the Street Where You Live, Me and My Shadow, Pretty Baby, Wonderful One, Bolero Americano and Did I Remember.

The band under the effective leadership of Bobby Christian, talented percussionist, are excellent.

Eddie Osborn is the star of BALDWIN ORGAN AND BONGOS release. He displays top talent in the rendition of such numbers El Cumbachero, the fast moving Latin tune; Buttons and Bows, South of the Border, Muskrat Ramble, Tennessee Waltz, and Frensi.

He has good support from Bob Rosengarden at the bongos and drums; George Devens, percussionist specialist and Frank Carroll at the bass.

Capsule Review

THE ALAMO — The original sound track recording of the John Wayne production based on historic siege of the Alamo. This album contains some of the most hauntingly beautiful music to come out of Hollywood. Play the disc and you'll want to see the movie. Some of the numbers have already made the "hit parade;" these include The Green Leaves of Summer, the Ballad of the Alamo and Tennessee Babe. The music was composed by Dimitri Tiomkin and Paul Francis Webster. Dimitri Tiomkin also conducts.

Marty Robbins sings the Ballad of the Alamo and The Brothers Four sing The Green Leaves of Summer. The chorus sings the wistful Tennessee Babe as well as The Green Leaves of Summer. (Columbia)

Now On Superior Court

CHICAGO — Judge Alexander J. Napoli, Ex-Grand Venerable of the Illinois Order, has been elected Judge of the Superior Court of Cook County.

Prior to his election to the Superior Court, Judge Napoli was serving a second term as a Municipal Court Judge. He was elected to the Municipal Court in 1950 to fill a vacancy. He was re-elected to a full six-year term in 1952 and reelected again in 1958. He is a former Assistant State's Attorney.

Judge Napoli, a member of the Order for many years, is a former venerable of Roseland Lodge, served as Grand Orator and in 1955 was elected to the office of Grand Venerable and served two terms.

As a supreme delegate Judge Napoli has attended Supreme Conventions in Philadelphia, 1955; San Francisco, 1957 and Boston, 1959.

NAPOLI

A Number of "Firsts"

The Political Scene

By A. ALFRED MARCELLO

A great many events took place in 1960 that will long be remembered. It was a year in which history was made on a number of counts. Of particular significance, however, was the strong emergence of men of Italian origin on the American political scene.

They rode the crest to victory in a wide range of public offices, from municipal posts to judge-ships, State Legislators, Governors and members of Congress. In some instances these men wrote political history by achieving a number of "firsts" in the political arena. This was the story in Rhode Island, Massachusetts and Ohio, to name a few.

Successors Are Italian

For the first time in the history of American politics two Governors of Italian descent were succeeded in their respective states by new Governors, also of Italian roots. This was the story in Rhode Island where Lieut. Gov. John A. Notti succeeded Christopher Del Sesto as Governor. And that also was the story in Massachusetts. There John A. Volpe, long prominent in the Order, took over the reins as Chief Executive, from Foster Furcolo, who served two terms as Governor of the Bay State.

Father-Son Team

And in Ohio, two members of the Order, have become the first father-son legislative team in the history of that state. Anthony O. Calabrese, Jr., was elected to the House of Representatives to join his father, Anthony, Sr., in the State House in Columbus. Anthony, Sr., is a member of the Ohio State Senate and Grand Venerable of the Ohio Order.

In Illinois, a former Grand Venerable, Alexander J. Napoli, was elected to the Superior Court of that State. Judge Napoli had been a Municipal Court Judge for a number of years.

Ten in Congress

On the Congressional scene

ten men of Italian descent were elected to the U. S. House of Representatives. Of particular interest is that a score or more candidates of Italian origin sought election to Congress. And in some districts the Republican and Democratic candidates were both of Italian origin. In one New York district, the three candidates were all of Italian descent.

Here is a list of candidates of Italian origin who have been elected to Congress.

Connecticut: Emilio Q. Daddario, Robert N. Gialmo.

Illinois: Roland V. Libonti.

Massachusetts: Silvio O. Conte.

New York: Victor L. Anfuso, Alfred E. Santangelo, J. P. Adabbo.

New Jersey: Peter W. Rondino, Jr.

Ohio: Delbert A. Lattae.

Pennsylvania: John H. Dent.

There are now four Governors of Italian origin. These are: John A. Volpe, Massachusetts; John R. Notti, Rhode Island; Michael V. DiSalle, Ohio and Albert D. Rosellini, Washington.

Father-Son Legislative Team

Anthony Calabrese Junior Wins Ohio House Seat

The Order Sons of Italy in America boasts of another "first"—a father and son legislative team in the state of Ohio.

State Sen. Anthony O. Calabrese Sr., of Cleveland, Grand Venerable of the Ohio Order, who has been serving in the Ohio Legislature since 1952, has been joined by Anthony, Jr., 25, who was elected to the House of Representatives in the November elections and polled 285,896 votes—almost as many as given Vice President Nixon. It is the first such father and son team in Ohio legislative history.

Grand Venerable Calabrese was elected to the House of Representatives in 1952, re-elected in 1954, and elected to the senate in 1956. He has been a member of the Order for 29 years and has served several offices in the Ohio Grand Council.

Anthony, Jr., a graduate of John Carroll University and law student at Cleveland-Marshall Law School, has been a member of the Order for several years. He is married to the former Carolyn Silla.

Native of Italy

Anthony, Sr., was born in Forlì Del Sannio, campobasso province, Italy in 1909. The second youngest of eight children, he came with his mother to the United States in 1919. His father, a wine seller, settled his business and followed his family to Cleveland.

Brother Calabrese went to Observation School to master the language, sold newspapers, candy and sandwiches aboard New York Central trains, lying about his age to get the job. He was a boy thrown into a man's world to help support his mother and father.

He attended Fairmont Junior High School and took business courses at Wesley College and at 21, New York Central made him a dining car steward.

Four years later his mother passed away, a victim of cancer. And soon after, he met Miss Mary Buzzelli, daughter of Orazio Buzzelli, and ardent member of the Sons of Italy.

State Sen. Anthony O. Calabrese Sr., right, chats with son, Anthony, Jr., recently elected to the Ohio House of Representatives.

Brother Calabrese today recalls that before he could take Mary's hand in marriage, he had to become a member of the Order. "Her father wouldn't have it any other way," he said. He became manager of the Sons of Italy Club and later went into the tavern business, defense work, manager of a lounge, and in 1952, election to the Ohio Legislature.

He has one other son, Lenny, an eighth grader at St. Philomena's Academy, and an honor student.
